M. G. STRATTON APPOINTED

MANAGER OF TROLLEY ROAD

Succeeds W. C. Callaghan as General Manager of Shore Line System.

On Sunday the Shore Line Electric Railway system, under the management of M. G. Stratton, who has been appointed to succeed W. C. Callaghan as general manager of the system.

Mr. Stratton, who has been in the service of the system for a number of years, is a native of the city.

A thorough technical training and 25 years' experience in design, construction, operation and management of electric railway light and power systems have been the preparation of Mr. Stratton for his new position.

His position, which will cover the operation of all of the 24 miles of property now comprising the Shore Line system.

Mr. Stratton is an expert, formerly in the employ of Sanderson & Porter, operators of railways of New York, and has been familiarizing himself with the local lines for the past few weeks.

RED CROSS FUND

NOW AT $19,200

Expected That More Will Be Handed In This Week.

With the addition of a sum of $1,473.50 the local Red Cross fund has reached a total of $19,200.

P. J. Leavens, chairman of the local work, announced Sunday night that while the fund is now $19,200, the goal of $20,000 is not far off.

A great deal more money would be turned in before the present week was over.

It will be remembered that last April the local branch raised about $5,000 which added to the present sum.

Norwich's contributions have been up to $12,000.

Miss Catherine Young, of Stoughton and William T. Clark of Coventry, who were married last week at St. Mary's church, are to be married at St. Mary's church, at Newport, where the groom is connected with the naval training station.

The national civil service commission announced that it had received and approved of high explosive and incendiary bombs for men only.

A vacancy at the Ordnance Arsenal, Dover, N. J., at $1,500 to $1,600 a year, will be filled from this examination.

In the window of the Fanning Studio on Broadway is a new and novel wall-paper, heavy and wide, and like the "Colonial" paper found in ancient houses, its designs represent the allied nations of the United States, France, England, Russia, Belgium and Italy.

Broadway church has received from Miss Caroline R. Scarlett a silver tea set and a service of eight pieces which was presented some years ago to her uncle, Richard Colburn. The gift is doubly appreciated for its intrinsic value and for its associations.

Of Eastern Connecticut interest is the fact that Mrs. William Grosvener, of Providence, has announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Anita D. Grosvener, to Richard C. Curtis of Boston. Mr. Curtis is attached to the Naval Reserve force of the First Naval District.

As a relief measure for dependents of American artists in the war, the War Emergency Fund committee of the National Artists Club has issued an art stamp, to be sold at 1 cent in quantities of twenty-five and upward.

The committee includes J. Allen Weir, the Windham artist.

Several local employees of the Western Union Telegraph company received checks Saturday, the first of two regular payments authorized by the company based upon the compensation paid each employee who has been in the service of the company since January 2 of the present year.

Miss Gladys M. Allen, daughter of Mrs. Henry Allen, of Winsted, and Waldo S. Honold of Ellington, son of the late Mr. Honold of Barkhamsted, were married Wednesday evening at Winsted by the Rev. C. C. Cole of the Methodist church. Mr. and Mrs. Honold will reside in Ellington.

THE FLAG AND WHAT IT REPRESENTS

Stirring Address by Archdeacon J. Eldred Brown at Patriotic Service—Trinity Episcopal Church Dedicated Two Flags Sunday Morning

Sunday Morning

In accordance with the spirit of the times, a patriotic service and flag dedication was held in Trinity Episcopal church Sunday morning.

The church was filled to capacity with a patriotic congregation who united in singing America as the opening hymn.

The dedication of the large flag, one of the flag of the state of Connecticut and the other that of the United States, followed the singing of the hymn.

Archdeacon J. Eldred Brown, the rector, after the dedication prayer, dedicated the flags to the honor and glory of God with the following dedication sentence:

Forasmuch as Almighty God hath graciously pleased to allow us to receive the gifts of those who have willingly offered of their substance, and nothing doubting that it is His will to allow this charitable work of ours in setting apart these flags to His service and glory, we therefore, on behalf of this church, accept the offering and dedicate these flags to the holy and eternal Trinity, Father, Son and Holy Ghost, and to the service and welfare of our beloved country. Amen.

The congregation rose and sang The Star Spangled Banner.

Rev. Mr. Brown gave a patriotic and stirring address.

Rev. Mr. Brown said in part: The flag of a nation stands, first, for the nation's sovereignty or jurisdiction. It is a symbol of the nation's independence. Flying aloft at an army post or a naval station, for example, the flag signifies that the army or navy owns allegiance to the country whose flag it flies.

Similarly, a flag flying over the executive building or office of a dependent country is meant to indicate that that country is dependent on the nation represented by this particular flag.

One would know at once that the Philippine Islands are dependent on the United States, that the flag of the United States is a symbol of the government of a country, that which has authority to represent the nation.

But government implies power. Power, which is the subject of the flag, implies law and force. And so the flag stands for force, for that power which stands behind the law and enforces it.

But power, which is the subject of the flag, implies law and force. And so the flag stands for force, for that power which stands behind the law and enforces it.

But power, which is the subject of the flag, implies law and force. And so the flag stands for force, for that power which stands behind the law and enforces it.

But power, which is the subject of the flag, implies law and force. And so the flag stands for force, for that power which stands behind the law and enforces it.

But power, which is the subject of the flag, implies law and force. And so the flag stands for force, for that power which stands behind the law and enforces it.

But power, which is the subject of the flag, implies law and force. And so the flag stands for force, for that power which stands behind the law and enforces it.

But power, which is the subject of the flag, implies law and force. And so the flag stands for force, for that power which stands behind the law and enforces it.

But power, which is the subject of the flag, implies law and force. And so the flag stands for force, for that power which stands behind the law and enforces it.

But power, which is the subject of the flag, implies law and force. And so the flag stands for force, for that power which stands behind the law and enforces it.

But power, which is the subject of the flag, implies law and force. And so the flag stands for force, for that power which stands behind the law and enforces it.
